THE ISSUES OF THE NEXT CAMPAIGN.

Efforts are being made to reduce the issues of the next Presidential campaign to a mere personal warfare. "Did the President rob a hen roost, and if he did, how many eggs did he steal?" "Can a Republican office-holder be an honest man, and if so, is there one in point of fact?" Are the questions which the Ku-Klux and their Northern friends and sympathisers are trying to force upon the nation as the issues of the day. Precisely as they vented their impotent rage upon General Butler, when he compelled the she rebels of New Orleans to respect the flag, by screeching "spoons," so are they now engaged in traducing General Grant, who has earned their eternal hatred, by a concerted cry of "thieves, thieves."

The Republican party intends to make up its own issues. It will give its own account of its political stewardship, which has been characterized by the utmost economy, and by exemplary integrity. It is not denied that among the hundred thousand agents whom the government employs there have not been some dishonest men, but considering the laxity of public sentiment upon pecuniary defaults, the smallness of the salaries paid, and the insecurity of official tenure, there have been as few defalcations or maladministrations as could have been reasonably expected. The cure for official and personal peculations lies not within the range of political changes, but in a better public opinion, which demands that rascals shall be punished regardless of their apparent religious and political zeal.

The real question which the nation will be called on to decide is, "shall the enemies of the United States, who since the war have murdered by assassination thousands of the friends of the government, both white and black, and their Northern sympathizers be installed as the rulers of loyal men? Is the combination of all the reactionary and revolutionary elements of the nation.(for both of these opposite parties have one bond of union, the overthrow of existing institutions,) to be successful in establishing violence and disorder in the place of harmony and the progressive development of the nation? For more than two years the Republicans have pointed out enormous robberies of the Tammany ring; but the World, the Staatszeitung and every Democratic journal defended it until last summer, when the exposures of the Times, showing that millions were being stolen, nerved a portion of the Democracy to resistence. And even last fall Tweed was elected to the State Senate by some ten thousand majority. It was only by a combination of a portion of the Democrats with the Republicans that Tammany was overthrown, for counting out the thirty-five thousand Republicans, Tammany, at the last election, had a clear majority in New York city. And yet many demagogues had the audacity to proclaim that the candidates elected by their class of voters would be an improvement of the civil service

There will be but two parties in the next campaign. Factions may go through the motion of putting up reform Republican, or reform Temperance, or reform Labor candidates; but all these diversions will only be made in the interest of the Democracy,and some weeks before the October elections there pseudo tickets will be withdrawn and the nation will be again divided into two hostile political camps—one representing constitutional progress—the other a combination of all that is opposed thereto, no matter for what reason.

In these circumstances it is the duty of patriots to stand with loyalty and devotion to the flag which so safely carried the nation through the late civil war, and to spurn with deserving contempt the pitiful articles of the enemy. The Trojan horse with which the Ku-Klux Greeks of modern times, intend to enter the capital, is Civil Service reform but the disguise is too transparent to deceive the nation.

If the loyal men of the nation can no longer be trusted with its destiny than it has to fall to pieces, for the disloyal elements that hate the Government, and regard it as a tyranny will certainly not try to save it. But there is really no danger. Never was the nation more prosperous, and more certain of a glorious, peaceful, yet progressive future. In no country and at no time did the industrious worker receive so many pecuniary and educational advantages; and nowhere have his children so many chances to become wealthy and even great men. In these circumstances it would be the basest ingratitude to strike down our Republican system with its certainty, and place the destiny of the nation into the hands of the public enemy and notorious adventurers.

THE NEW YORK EMMIGRANT COMMISSION.

Among the many corruptions caused by the Tammany Hall organization, none needs more immediate correction than the Castle Garden Commission; and in view of recent developments it becomes the duty of all friends of good government; of the purity of the ballot-box, and of administration, to urge upon Congress to apply the knife to the root of this Upas tree. For the purpose of enlightening public sentiment, a brief history of the commission and of its corruptions is given.

For many years no one took charge of the large number of emigrants that arrived annually in New York city, and therefore the greatest swindles were perpetrated upon them—both in transportation and in the exchange of their money. About twenty years ago, an association of philanthropic men were incorporated by the State of New York for the purpose of preventing the perpetration of those wrongs. To this commission the State Legislature granted extraordinary powers. All steerage passengers must be landed within their jurisdiction; they have the power to appoint their own police and to exclude all persons from the grounds; they license ticket agents, express agents, and hotel owners, &c., and in fact, said commission has absolute control over the emigrant from the moment he steps on board the commission's landing barge, until they allow him to depart.

Among the many abuses only one is mentioned, because it has a more direct political bearing than others. Great as the direct patronage of this emigrant commission is. amounting to several hundred thousand dollars of expenditures, its indirect power is generally conceded to be worth ten thousand votes to the Democracy per year.

The commission in the exercise of the license power, grants license to Tammany tavern keepers only; and to the vilest of New York's criminals at that. In consideration of this license which enables them to make their living off the emigrants these boarding house and saloon keepers must act as the whippers in of the Democracy. They are to instil sentiments hostile to the general Government and to the Republican party, and to use all their influence to attach these new comers to the Democracy.

When the election day comes premiums of from $2 to $10 per head are offered for new recruits; and these saloon keepers bring up hundreds of Irishmen to be naturalized when they have but just landed. This accounts for the extensive use of fraudulent naturalization papers, for they would be of no avail if thousands were not found ready to vote on them.

If we intend to keep the great State of New York permanently on our side, we must effectually cut off this source of Democratic supply.

CHOICE COMPANIONS.—The sort of man who is found worthy of notice by "the great philanthropist," Horace Greeley, "our later Franklin," and who was so lately the recipient of a brotherly letter of advice respecting the next candidate of the Democracy, and of condolence and regret over the great mistake of their last nomination, thus publishes his own high character and breeding, in a recent editorial in his own paper, the Lexington (Mo.) Caucasian:

"There's no more chance to elect a Democrat to the Presidency of this puritan niggerized empire next year than there is of making him Czar of all the Russias, or Tycoon of Japan. It's simply asinine to talk of it. These are plain words—words that wring our utmost soul with anguish to utter."

These be truly "plain words"—pure words—chaste words—just such words as must delight ye ancient philosopher of ye white coat. If a man be known by the company he keeps, what shall we say of Horace?

"TARIFF ANDY,"

The Hon. Andrew Steward, of Fayette county, who was a whig member of Congress more than forty years ago, and always a thorough friend of home industry, and the American laboring man, has lately written the following letter on the Tariff:

UNIONTOWN, PA., Dec. 11, 1871.

HON. W. D. KELLEY: Dear Sir:—Last winter the free traders succeeded in reducing the duty on pig iron from $9 to $7 per ton, and I see that they now propose to reduce it to $5. This reduction of $2 was made to reduce the price in accordance with their theory that "the duty is always added to the price and paid by consumers," while, on the other hand, you contended that the effect would be to break down our weak establishments, check the strong, discourage investments, destroy competition, and of course diminish supply, and thereby increase the price. Such were the arguments; now for facts and results.

Let these free traders look at the price current of pig iron, when they reduced the duty about a year ago, and at the price current now, and they will find that instead of reducing the price of pig iron $2 a ton it has increased it on an average nearly $6, say $5 per ton. Then let them look at the official reports, British and American, and they will find that we have imported, since the reduction of the duty, about 200,000 tons of pig metal, which, at an increase of $5 a ton, will make a clear gain to foreign importers of $1,000,000, and an equivalent loss to American consumers, besides the millions lost by breaking down American competition and supply.

But this is not all. The Treasury has by this act, $2 a day on 200,000 tons of pig iron, amounting to $400,000 in gold revenue, which our own people must now pay to supply this loss. Such are the fruits of "revenue reform." Other causes may have contributed to these results, but this cannot impair the truth or destroy the influence of the facts stated.

While these undeniable facts, by records, staring them in the face, these revenue reformers now propose to repeat the experiment by which they have robbed American consumers of $1,000,000, and the Treasury of $400,000 more to favor foreigners.

Now, had they reversed this action, had they added $2 a ton instead of taking it off, thereby stimulating production and encouraging investments at home, developing our own resources, giving employment to our own labor, and markets and money to our own farmers instead of foreigners, how many millions would it have saved, and how many would it have added to our national wealth and resources.

Now permit me to add, briefly, a few reasons why pig iron, above everything else, requires high protection.

1, Because it is the product, almost exclusively, of day labor, unaided by labor-saving machinery; for what is clearer than that American labor, getting from $1,50 to $2 a day, must be protected in its struggle with foreign labor for the American market, receiving wages on an average less than half that sum? Especially as a cost of transporting foreign pig iron in this country is a mere trifle, often as ballast, less than five dollars a ton; about the cost of carting it ten or fifteen miles on ordinary roads.

2. Because almost the whole value of pig iron consists of agricultural produce. Ask any practical pig iron maker, and he will tell you that about three-fourths of the money he receives for pig iron goes to the neighboring farmers for the subsistence of his labor—the horses, mules and oxen, men, women and children employed about his furnace—the ore and coal of which his iron is made being utterly worthless if left in the ground; and so the foreign iron we purchase consists of the agricultural produce of other farmers sent here in disguise, worked up into pig iron, and our money sent by millions to pay it, instead of being distributed among our own farmers and laboring men.

3. Because iron is alike essential in peace and war, and for which we ought, therefore, to be independent of the world.

4. Because the coal and ore of which iron is made are useless and worthless if left unused and unconverted into iron.

5. Because our capacity to produce iron is unlimited; our coal and ore inexaustible; easier of access, and more equally and generally distributed than in any other country. Hence, ought we not only to supply ourselves, but also, in time, the old and exhausted countries of Europe with iron, as we are now doing with many other articles heretofore imported, but now exported under favor of high protective duties, which having done their work are now useless and inoperative.

Very respectfully, yours,

A. STEWART.

THE SUPREME JUDGESHIP.

[Correspondence of the Huntingdon Journal.]

MR. EDITOR:—So much attention is attracted to the several candidates for the Republican nomination for Governor, that the importance of selecting the proper nominee for Judge of the Supreme Court, on the same ticket, is being overlooked.

Considering the great interests that are involved in the cases decided by that Court, and that the Judges hold their offices for fifteen years, it is really more important than the office of Governor, and the men where character and qualifications fit them for the responsible duties of that Bench, should be named long enough before the Convention meets to have their merits publicly discussed, in order that a proper selection may be made.

Among the men most widely and favorably known to the legal profession is P. Frazer Smith, Esq., of West Chester, the present State Reporter, and the mention of his name will at once suggest to the lawyers of the State, familiar with the labors in that office, the many qualities he possesses to fit him for Judicial duties. Of stainless private life, a mature and cultivated lawyer, with a clear head, an honest heart, and habits of untiring industry, he would make a Judge whose integrity and ability would command at once the confidence and respect of the bar and the people. His services in the Legislature of the State, his patriotism and devotion to the country's interests in her hour of trial, are well known and appreciated.

It is not my purpose to write a labored eulogy upon him, but to present his name as one of our eminent citizens, whose purity and learning point him out as a proper candidate of the Republican party at the approaching campaign. I do not know that he would make himself a candidate, but I do know that he belongs to that class of men upon whom the people should call to serve them in public life, and upon whose fidelity they can always safely rely.

REVERDY JOHNSON'S OPINION OF THE SOUTH CAROLINA KU-KLUX.

We publish, as a reply to that portion of Governor Bowie's Message with regard to the Ku-klux, the following extract from the speech of Hon. Reverdy Johnson at their trial at Columbia a few days since. He said, in speaking of the Ku-Klux crimes:

"I have listened with unmixed horror to some of the testimony which has been brought before you. The outrages are shocking to humanity; they admit of neither excuse nor justification; they violate every obligation which nature and law impose upon men; they show that the parties engaged were brutes, insensible alike to the obligations of humanity and religion. But, if justice shall not overtake them, there is a tribunal from which they may not hope to escape; it is their own judgment; that tribunal which sits in the heart of every man; that still, small voice which strikes through every heart—the voice of conscience—the voice of God. If it has not already startled them to the enormity of their conduct, I trust, in the mercy of Heaven, that that voice will speak before they shall be called upon to account for the transactions of this world; that it will so speak as to make them penitent; and that, trusting in the dispensations of Heaven, whose justice is dispensed with mercy, when they shall be brought before the bar of that great tribunal there will be found in the fact of their penitence or in their previous lives some small grounds upon which God may say—Pardon."

Such language, and from their own counsel, says the correspondent of the New York Evening Post, was far from what the Ku-Klux and their sympathizers had looked for. Anger and consternation were seen on the faces of many men who had come to hear their own defence from the mouth of this distinguished advocate.

Fifty thousand dollars, the amount necessary to secure the normal school of the district, have been subscribed by the people of Indiana. ALEXANDER HAMILTON ON THE ONE-TERM PRINCIPLE.

Alexander Hamilton, one of the brightest stars of the Revolutionary age, was a member of the Constitution of the United States. He was one of the writers of those memorable letters published soon after the adjournment of the Convention, and designed to explain the provisions of the Constitution and commend it to the confidence of the people. Number seventy-two of the Federalist, written by Alexander Hamilton contains his views "in regard to the re-eligibility of the President." The conclusion to which he comes after canvassing the whole question, is expressed in the following words:

There is an excess of refinement in the idea of disabling the people to continue in office men who had entitled themselves, in their opinion, to approbation and confidence; the advantages of which are at best speculative and equivocal, and are overbalanced by disadvantages far more certain and decisive."

For this opinion he gives five reasons, which we state as follows, without their amplification by the author:

"1. One in effect of the exclusion (namely, from re-eligibility) would be a diminution of the inducements to good behavior.

"2. Another ill effect of the exclusion would be the temptation to sordid views, to peculation, and in some instances to usurpation.

"3. A third ill effect of the exclusion would be the depriving the community of the advantage of the experience gained by the chief magistrate in the exercise of his office.

"4. A fourth ill effect of the exclusion would be the banishing men from stations in which, in certain emergencies of the State, their presence might be of the greatest moment to the public interest or safety.

"5. A fifth ill effect of the exclusion would be that it would operate as a constitutional interdiction of stability in the administration."

These points are expanded and brought out in their full force, with the masterly ability and statesman like logic for which Alexander Hamilton was so distinguished. Those of our readers who feel an interest in this question, and can conveniently turn to the Federalist, will receive no harm by perusing this letter from the pen of one of the profoundest thinkers of any age.

THE Standard, of this week, generally right on matters concerning the welfare of the community, thus "hazes" Cheap Johns:

"Traveling 'Cheap Johns' are birds of prey by nature, and fools are the food upon which they most do thrive. The vocation has always been a profitable one, since fools have always been a drug in the market, and as there seems to be no indication of a diminution in the supply it may be reasonably expected that the tribe of itinerating 'Cheap Johns' will not soon disappear from the face of the earth. It occasionally happens, however, that very good people, a little deficient in judgment perhaps, patronized these peripatetic slop-shops for the sake of obtaining a bargain. Deluded by the apparent lowness of price, taken completely in by the well-timed denunciations of extortions practised by resident merchants, and hoping to get a good article at exceptionally low rates, our short-sighted snap at the alluring bait, and the cunning 'Cheap Johns' are a snare and a cheat, and should be accordingly shunned."

Just so, Mr. Standard, we have one of these 'Cheap Johns' in our city, who has succeeded in deceiving a few people, but owing to his store not being crowded the last few evenings they are growing less, and we presume he will soon make another move. Keep on the watch for "skunks."—Altoona Sun.

We received a very pleasant letter of thanks from our old friend Kendall, since his return home, for a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment which we gave him, and which he says has entirely cured him of the troublesome and dangerous cough he had when here.

On the death of one of England's most eminent physicians, all his effects were sold by auction, and among other things was a sealed packet, marked "Advice to Physicians," which brought a great price. The purchaser on opening the packet, read as follows: "Keep the head cool, the bowels open and the feet warm." If physic is neccessary, use Parsons' Purgative Pills; they are the most scientifically prepared pill that has appeared in the last hundred years.

REVIEWING the year 1871, the Manchester (Eng.) Examiner states that the cotton districts have had a return of those busy times which certain prophets told us some years ago, had gone forever. The cotton manufacture,so far from having disappeared as one of the staple industries, has more capital embarked in it at this moment, and finds employment for a larger number of work people, than at any former period.

A FIGHT WITH A BISHOP.

FATHER STACK EXPLAINS WHAT HIS CONTROVERSY WITH BISHOP O'HARA MEANS.

In accordance with previous notice, Father Stack, the now celebrated priest of the Church of the Annunciation in Williamsport, Pa., delivered a lecture in Elliot Academy of Music, on Thursday evening, to a large audience, composed of the best citizens of the various denominations, the Catholic largely predominating. His lecture had been advertised several days. The title of it was, "What my Controversy with Bishop O'Hara Means." Father Stack made some severe criticisms on the report of a pretended interview with Father Koepper, the German Catholic priest of that city, as published in the New York Herald. His replies were both pithy and witty, and created much merriment.—He discussed the question of the power of the Bishops over the property of the churches, vested in them; passed briefly over the history of the case in the Court, and severely criticised the Bishop's position. He (Stack) had placed himself outside the Church by his appeal to the civil Courts.

The authority relied on by the Bishop for his attempt at summary excommunication was an old bull of the Pope declaring that any officer of the Church, of whatever dignity, who for any cause whatever should appeal from ecclesiastical to civil law, did, by such an act, place himself outside the Church. Father Stack said that the Bishop, in quoting this authority and using it against a priest, had exceeded his intention and excommunicated himself, for the Bishop himself, because the Court of Lycoming county had decided against him, had appealed to the Supreme Court of the State. By this bull, if one were excommunicated both were. The Bishop could not escape. This point brought a burst of applause from the audience as the logical sequence was plain to the comprehension of all.

Father Stack declared himself a firm adherent to the Catholic Church. It commended itself to his reason as well as to his faith. In its government it respects individual rights, and does not allow them to be arbitrarily interfered with.—His controversy with the Bishop was not of a personal nature. It was not a quarrel with the Church, but for the Church. It was a demand by the priests of the United States to be protected against the arbitrary power of the Bishops, and to have the protection of canon law here as in Europe. This was the whole controversy. He did not claim to be a Luther,or a reformer outside of the Church, nor did he intend to create schism within it. He only asked that the laws of the Church be applied in this country. When the Bishops of this country wishing to retain power as long as possible, petitioned to the Pope to extend the time of their rule for "twenty years perpetually," he refused, showing thereby that he was not favorable to its long continuance, but he did extend it "for a time. He thought that "time" had expired and he had taken the means to contest it.

Father Stack had spoke about an hour in a plain, cool, deliberate manner, and was frequently interrupted by applause.

VICTORY.

A special election held in Philadelphia, yesterday, in the 4th ward, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Senator Connell, has resulted in the election of Mr. Gray, the regular Republican nominee, over "Aleck" McClure the reform candidate by a majority of from 500 to 1500. This is our latest telegraph dispatch up to the time of going to press. If this be true, and we hope it is, what a lesson it should teach to these corrupt, would be, reformers and the guerilla portion of the Republican papers in Philadelphia and throughout the State? Aleck McClure as a reformer! Pshaw! You might as well talk of Judas Iscariot being a saint and the author of a meritorious act when he betrayed the world's Redeemer.

ONE DAY AT A TIME.

One day at a time,
Through the journey of life;
O Lord, we thus pray;
  The years they are long,
  And the temptations are strong;
Give us strength for one day.

One day at a time,
For how could we bear
All our future to know?
  Thou hast veiled it from sight,
  And thy love will make light
Out of darkness below.

One day at a time;
O Lord, by thy grace
Give us daily our bread.
  We are tired, we are faint;
  Saviour, hear our complaint,
And our hungry souls feed.

One day at a time;
Thy wisdom is best;
We trust all to thee.
  Our hearts they are weak,
  And in vain do we seek
From our sorrows to flee.

One day at a time
Lift us upward to thee
By thy marvelous love,
  Where to praise not to pray,
  Makes the pure, perfect day
Of the bright world above.

Charity's Home,

And How it was Paid For.

When I came to New York, a few years ago, my wife said to me one morn-:

"Isreal, we must have a home of our own."

Said I: "Charity, it's just impossible; we hain't the means."

Said she: "Israel, we hain't the means to pay the rent these people charge, that's clear."

She began washing up the breakfast things, and off I went to duty.

In the evening Charity said to me, as we sat down to supper; "Israel, I've bought a lot."

I sprang up from my chair and said: "You've bought what?"

"A lot," said she.

"A lot?" said I.

"A lot," said she.

"Well!" said I, and I sat down again and went for the tea and biscuit. When I came too, I said to my wife: "Just explain yourself, Charity."

"I've bought a lot," said she. "Mr. Dodd says, the fifty dollars down are satisfactory, and the rest may run at six per cent. Twenty feet front one hundred feet deep—two thousand feet—at ten cents a foot, two hundred dollars. Fifty paid, one hundred and fifty due."

"But, Charity, how about a house?"

"All right Israel. I've made a contract with Chipps & Cullings; house, shed and fence, fifteen hundred and fifty."

"Charity, are you—"

"Deranged, eh? No, love, not a bit. One hundred dollars cash when possession is given—"

"But, Charity—"

"Stop a minute. You know, Israel, we can never get our large bureau, nor our large sofa, nor our high-post bedstead nor our large secretary, nor our large wardrobe into this little four-room house. That's clear, hain't it?"

"Well?"

"Well, then, we'll sell them all, and the proceeds will meet these two cash payments,"

"Exactly, with a little difference, may be. So you see."

"But how can we do without these things?"

"As easy as you will do without cigars; as easy as you will be your own barber and bootblack, as easy as we'll both take our breakfast with out half-dollar butter; as I'll make all winter's clothes carry me through next winter; as easy as I'll carry you through, nice and genteel, on the same principle; as easy as—"

"Charity!"

"Well?"

"As easy as I'll do without a 'nooner' and a 'night-cap,' and my cigars, and theatre tickets, and—"

"Exactly, old glow-worm!"

"Well—well. Suppose we should do without these things, and I should be away before it is paid; where would our own—my Charity's home—be then?"

"Oh, you can get your life insured, and make that all safe."

"Darling, here's with you!"

I never saw debts squared off so soon. Two hundred and fifteen hundred, make seventeen; and one hundred and fifty, cash off, paid by proceeds of surplus furniture leaves fifteen hundred and fifty. Fifty dollars a month pays this off in—no, not in thirty-one months, because the interest and insurance payments put it off somewhat, and the taxes and a couple of omissions kept it running longer, say for three years; and then we had a home of our own, every foot of it worth fifty cents, making a clear gain of eight hundred dollars; and we were—

"Stop, husband let me tell it. We have a home—a sweet delightful home—and I have a husband who never knew that his soul debasing indulgences had brought him down so far as that none but his own wife denied his fallen state, or hoped to lift him up again. We have three dear children, of whom we are proud; and—"

"Charity!"

"What, love?"

"I have just been thinking that if—"

"Nothing more is needed, Israel."

"Let me say it out, Charity. If you were only single, how I'd like to court you over again."

"Not for long, old Rubicund! for I'd drop plump into your arms at the first time of asking." And Charity suited the action to the word.

"It's all, no doubt, very natural for young men to love the girls," said Israel; "but no girl was ever half so lovable to me as this dear wife, who has given more than half the years of her life to make me happy, and leading me out of the ways of folly and of sin, and our darling babies are all like unto her."

And Charity broke in with an Amen so emphatic, that little Abe Lincoln shouted from his high-armed chair—"This meeting are dismissed!"

Death not Painful.

The pain of dying must be distinguished from the pain of the previous disease, for when life ebbs, sensibility declines. As death is the final extinction of corporal feeling, so numbness increases as death comes on. The prostration of disease, like healthful fatigue, engenders a growing stupor—a sensation of subsiding softly into a coveted repose. The transition resembles what may be seen in the lofty mountains, whose sides exhibiting every climate in regular graduation, vegetation luxuriates at their base, and dwindles in the approach to the regions of snow, till its fullest manifestation is repressed by the the cold. The so-called agony can never be more formidable than when the brain is the last to go, and the mind preserves to the end a rational cognizance of the state of the body; yet persons thus situated commonly attest that there are few things in the less painful than the close. "If I had strength enough to hold a pen;" said William Hunter. "I would write how easy and delightful it is to die." "If this be dying," said the niece of Newton of Olney, "it is a pleasant thing to die;" "the very expression," adds her uncle, "which another friend of mine made use of on her death-bed a few years ago." The same words have so often been uttered under similar circumstances that we could fill pages with instances which are only varied by the name of the speaker. "If this be dying," said Lady Glenorchy, "it is the easiest thing imaginable." "I thought that dying had been more difficult," said Louis XIV. "I did not suppose it was so sweet to die," said Francis Suarez, the Spanish theologian. An agreeable surprise was the prevailing sentiment with them all; they expected the stream to terminate in the dash of the torrent, and they found it was losing itself in the gentlest current. The whole of our faculties seem sometimes concentrated on the placid enjoyment. The day Arthur Murphy died he kept repeating from Pope:

"Taught half by reason, half by mere decay,
To welcome death, and calmly pass away."

Nor does the calm partake of the sensitiveness of sickness. There was a swell in the sea the day Collingwood breathed his last upon the element which had been the scene of his glory. Captain Thomas expressed a fear that he was disturbed by the tossing of the ship.—"Go, Thomas,', he replied, "I am now in a state in which nothing in this world can disturb me more. I am dying, and I am sure it must be consolatory to you and all who love me, to see how comfortably I am coming to my end."

The Word Farewell.

If ever a latent feeling of love and friendship assumes a tender reality, sweeping the innermost depths of the soul, and kindling sad emotions in two warm hearts, it is a memory lingering upon the parting hour, and we whisper that little, but expressive word—farewell.

Brave heart that has buffetted the storms of life, and did not tremble for the issue when troubles came, how powerless at last to check the rising tear or suppress a sigh as you uttered an adieu to the friend who had shared your joys and sorrows—your little playmate in childhood's happy days, when earth seemed a paradise of winning confidence innocence and truth.

Any one who stands in death's silent chamber, and while gazing on a dead face, upon which the sad word "ended" is written by icy fingers, and is ready to forget and forgive all the follies of a misspent life, and even draw the "soft mantle of charity" over the record of an enemy who wronged us; even so when we come to part with those who only had a small share of our affection, and readily forgive any differences that existed, or hard feelings that blunted the warm current of our regard. If, then, such are our emotions upon saying adieu to some ordinary associate, how much more intense the feelings of regard when the eye is resting upon the features endeared to us by a thousand hallowed remembrances, and the hand clasps hand, perhaps never to hear the kindly voice, or welcome the smile that gladdened us of yore.

But is it the mere fact of parting that gives us pain? Ah, no! rather is it the question that intrudes itself upon us, how, when and where shall we meet again? We are loth to say good-by; for knowing how frail the tenure we hold upon earth's dearest joys, and that death is ever near, lurking in the fairest flowers, we cannot always banish an apprehension for our safety and happiness, however groundless that apprehension may be, and when presentiments of evil and danger, almost amounting to superstition, will sometimes take possession of the bouyant and fearless heart.

How will it be at the next meeting? Reader, you may well ponder this, you have some dear one who is going from you, it may be some bright, sweet face you hope to call your wife at no very distant day, and she is going from you, or you from her! Have you pledged a vow of constancy, that nothing can turn aside, or will time and distance have taught you that "absence conquers love?" What is your next thought? When? Will it be a week, a month, or a year? Will it be forever?

Silence.

How eloquent is silence! Acquiescence, contradiction, difference, disdain, embarrassment and awe, may all be expressed by saying nothing. It may be necessary to illustrate this apparent paradox by a few examples. Do you seek an assurance of your lady-love's affection? The fair one confirms her lover's fondest hopes by a compliant and assenting silence. Should you hear an assertion, which you may deem false, made by some one of whose veracity politeness may withhold you from openly declaring your doubt, you denote a difference of opinion by remaining silent. Are you receiving a reprimand from a superior? You mark your respect by an attentive silence. Are you compelled to listen to the frivolous conversation of a fop? You signify your opinion of him by treating his loquacity with contemptuous silence. Are you in the course of any negotiation about to enter on a discussion painful to your own feelings, and to those who are concerned in it? The subject is almost invariably prefaced by an awkward silence. Silence has also its utility and advantages. And, first, what an invaluable portion of domestic strife might have been prevented; how often might the quarrel which by mutual aggravation has perhaps terminated in bloodshed have been checked at its commencement by a judicious silence? Those persons only who have experienced them are aware of the beneficial effects of that forbearance, which to the exasperating threat, the malicious sneer, or the unjustly imputated culpability, shall never answer a word. Secondly, there are not wanting instances where the reputation fortune, the happiness, nay, the life of a fellow creature, might be preserved by a charitable silence.

Sweet Tears.

A French physician publishes a long dissertation on the advantages of crying and groaning in general, and especially during surgical operations. He contends that groaning and crying are two grand operations by which nature allays anguish; that those patients who give way to their natural feelings, more speedily recover from accidents and operations than those who suppose it unworthy a man to betray such symptoms of cowardice as either to groan or cry.

He tells of a man who reduced his pulse from one hundred and twenty-six to sixty, in the course of a few hours, by giving full vent to his emotions. If people are at all unhappy about anything, let them go into their rooms and comfort themselves with a loud boo-hoo, and they will feel a hundred per cent better afterward. What is natural is nearly always useful; and nothing can be more natural than the crying of children when anything occurs to give them either physical or mental sorrow.

Probably most persons have experienced the effects of tears in relieving great sorrow. It is even curious how the feelings are allayed by their free indulgence in groans and sighs. Then let parents and friends show more indulgence to noisy bursts of grief—on the part of children as well as of older persons—and regard the eyes and the mouth as the safety-valves through which nature discharges her surplus steam.

A Large Audience.

The London correspondent of the Boston Advertisr says:—

I once heard Mr. Spurgeon preach in the Crystal Palace to 20,000 persons. Whichever way you looked, you saw a mass of human beings. His wife sat immediately below his pulpit. She was frightened and began to shed tears. Mr. Spurgeon observed her, and calling some one to him, sent a message, asking her to sit where she could not look at him, and after she had moved her nervousness passed away. So little did he exert himself that I could not believe the people at the rim of the circle could hear, but I was wrong. When the doxology after the sermon, had been sung, the great Baptist preacher, with the familiarity which seems to be allowed to particular men, said: "No, no; that will not do. Not half of you sung then. Let us have the words again, and let every one join. Mr. Organist, please play the verse once more." The organ was at the extreme end—scarcely in sight. The organist looked like a black dot. But he heard the little stout man in the pulpit, and turning round to the keys, sent forth a glorious volume of music, and the people had heard as well. The 5000 became 20,000. It was wonderful to find those enormous regiments of singers suddenly joining the rest.

THE State of Iowa has but one distillery.

A Word to the Girls.

One of the religious papers, in a recent article addressed to the young ladies, gave them some excellent advice as well as hard hits, saying, "Your bodies are the most beautiful of God's creations In the Continental galleries.. I always saw groups of people gathered about the pictures of women. It was not passion; the gazers were just as likely to be women as men; it was because of the wondrous beauty of a woman's body." Commenting on this fact, the writer says further, on imagining a lady passing his range of vision, "Now, isn't that a pretty looking object? A big hump, three big lumps, a wilderness of crimps and frills, a hauling up of the dress here and there, an enormous, hideous mass of false hair or bark, piled on top of their head, surmounted by a little flat ornamented with bits of lace, birds' tails, &c. The shop windows tell us all day long of the paddings, whale bones and steel springs, which occupy most of the space within that outside rig. In the name of all the simple sweet sentiments which cluster a home, I would ask, how is a man to fall in love with such a piece of compound, double twisted, touch-me-not artificialist, as you see in that wriggling curiosity?" With a wasp-waist, squeezing lungs, stomach, liver and other vital organs, into one-half their natural size, and with that long trail dragging on the ground, he wonders how any man of judgment, who knows that life is made up of use, of sense, of service of work, can take such a partner. He must be desperate, indeed, to unite himself for life with such a fettered, half-breathing ornament. He futrher tells the girls that the bad dress, added to the lack of exercise that is so general, lead to bad health, and men wisely fear that instead of a helpmate they would get an invalid to take care of. This bad health in women, just as in men, makes the mind as well as the body feeble and effeminate, leaving them no powers, no magnetism. He tells those who giggle so freely, and use large adjectives, such as "splendid," &c., that it deceives no one unless as silly as they are, only showing others that they are superficial, affected, silly, and have none of that womanly strength and warmth which are so assuring and attractive to men. He tells them they have become so childish and week minded, that they refuse to wear decent names even, and insist upon baby names, Instead of Helen, Margaret, Elizabeth, they affect Nellie, Maggie and Lizzie. When brothers were babies they were called Robby, Dicky and Johnny; but when they grow up to manhood, no more of that silly trash if you please. But he knows a woman of twenty-five years, and she is as big as both his grandmothers put to-gether, who insists on being callad Kitty, and her real name is Catharine; and although her brain is big enough to conduct affairs of state, she does nothing but giggle, cover up her face with her fan, and exclaim, once in four minutes, "Don't now! you are real mean." He wants to know how a man can propose a life partnership to so silly a goose. He denies the common remark that most sensible men are crazy after butterflies of fashion. Occasionally a man of brilliant success may marry a silly, week woman, but nineteen times in twenty, sensible men choose sensible women. In company they are very likely to chat and toy with those overdressed and forward creatures, but they don' ask them to go to the altar with them. Girls must also remember that among the young men in the matrimonial market, only a small number are independently rich, and in America such very rarely make good husbands. But the number of those who are just beginning in life, who are filled with noble ambition, who have a future, is very large. But such will not, they dare not, ask girls to join them, while they see them so idle, silly, and so gorgeously attired. Let them see that girls are industrious, economical, with habits that secure health and strength; that their life is earnest and real; that they would be willing to begin at the beginning in life with the man you would consent to marry—then marriage will become the rule, and not, as now, the exception.

Science and Business.

The great mass of the business people of the world in such an active, bustling age as our own, when the acquisition of money seems to be the great object of all in regard to scientific pursuits, is bordering upon the insane. Who is more devoted than a poor inventor, with a patent right in his pocket, obtained after years of study, and at the sacrifice of every personal comfort? What a deaf ear is turned to his theory and his explanations. What profound nonsense does it appear to many, to be contriving to cut for steam engines, spikes and chains for railways, cylinder presses for newspapers hot air furnaces, gas light and cooking apparatus for our homes! Did not the world exist without all these? Is it any better than it was two thousand years ago? What is the good of continually building observatories and gazing at the stars? What crazy people are these chemists, perpetually attempting to analyze everything?—these geologists running about and knocking stones to pieces with their hammers! Why do they not set themselves down to some honest, every-day employment, and earn their living as other people do?

This is the kind of remark which one hears every day, and which makes the unhappy votaries of science indignant at mankind. Why should I work hard with my own hands, and such fellows get along with their brains, asks many an inconsiderate, yet good hearted man, who does not favor the inequalities of life.

This is a one-sided view, however, and cannot justly be taken. To no class is the world more indebted than to what are called scientific men. These are the most efficient friends of humanity, and to their exertions we owe nearly all our comforts and our prosperity.

Development of Character.

In the gradual development of a bud into a beautiful and full-grown flower there is something that invites our deepest admiration. But there is a development surpassing this in beauty and grandness—the development of human character. What object more worthy our contemplation than that of a human soul passing through each successive stage of its existence, the rapid cultivation of our intellect, and the bringing out of that which God has endowed us with? We are born with the germ of character within us: and as our bodies develop themselves so do our characters. Some traits of character necessarily unfold themselves with our growth; others need to be stimulated and excited into growth by some particular influence. The man of genius has that within him which is to stamp him as such. The great general has the foundation of generalship born with him; all that is needed is some power of influence to develop it.

We might give many illustrations of meaning, all tending to establish the principle which we wish to develop—that human character is ever growining, developing itself, receiving nourishment and stimulant from without; that particular traits of character—traits that distinguish one man from another—are brought out by some particular influence. The thoughtless and fickle character, receiving impressions of sorrow and misfortune is subdued; and the more serious and meditative character is developed, and grows into the image of its Creator. At times it may be but a trifle that reverses the wheels of the soul, and develops a character that rises higher and higher above its fellow, reaching unto Heaven, and, at last, resting upon the highest pinnacle of eminence that is possible for man to attain.

Thin Skinned People!

There are some people, yes, many people, always looking out for slights. They cannot carry on the daily intercourse of the family, without some offence is designed. They are as touchy as hair-triggers. If they meet an acquaintance in the street who happens to be preoccupied with business, they attribute his abstraction in some mode personal to themselves and take umbrage accordingly. They lay on others the fault of their irritability. A fit of indigestion makes them see impertinence in everybody they come in contact with. Innocent persons, who never dreamed of giving offence, are astonished to find some unfortunate word, or some momentary taciturnity mistaken for an insult. To say the least, the habit is unfortunate. It is far wiser to take the more charitable view of our fellow-beings, and not suppose a slight is intended, unless the neglect is open and direct. After all, too, life takes its use in a great degree from the color of our own mind. If we are frank and generous, the world treats us kindly. If, on the contrary, we are suspicious, men learn to be cold and cautious to us. Let a person get a reputation of being touchy, and everybody is under more or less restraint; and in this way the chances of an imaginary offence is vastly increased.

"Das Oonion Hill coome by dees?" inquired a jolly Dutchman on Saturday night as he staggered into a Union Hill car at Hoboken.

"Yaw Fritz," answered a fellow-countryman.

"Yaw cakes all the vile Yacob," said Fritz, nearly crushing his friend's toes in his attempts to steady himself.

"Fritz you be tam heavy to-night."

"Yaas, I bees full of hot Dom and Sherrys, Yacob; I vas fool to dry Yan kee drinks; Dom and Sherry doo much for Fritz. I must dry und get some fresh air on the platform, Yacob."

Fritz succeded in getting the door open about six inches; a biting wind blew through the aperture, when an indignant passenger sprung to his feet and closed the door with a suddenness that turned Fritz halt around.

"Bees dis car on the outside or in side?" inquired Fritz.

"You are all right Fritz; sit down in this corner," said Yacob.

"Dank you, Yacob; if I sleeps when mine house coomes along, dell who I am,"

IN the case of a house burning down, why could not the piano be saved? Because the engine couldn't play upon it.

SUNDAY journals are discussing the question: "Can we cultivate rain?" Doubtful, says the Evening Post, but we can "raise thunder."

THE AMERICAN WASHER?
PRICE $5.50
THE AMERICAN WASHER SAVES MONEY, TIME, AND DRUDGERY.
The Fatigue of Washing Day no Longer Dreaded, but Economy, Efficiency, and Clean Clothing, Sure.
In calling public attention to this little machine, a few of the invaluable qualities, (not possessed by any other washing machine yet invented,) are here enumerated.
It is the smallest, most compact, most portable, most simple in construction, most easily operated. A child ten years old, with a few hours' practice, can thoroughly comprehend and effectually use it. There is no adjusting, no screws to annoy, no delay in adapting! It is always ready for use! It is a perfect little wonder! It is a miniature giant, doing more work and of a better quality, than the most elaborate and costly. One half of the labor is fully saved by its use, and the clothes will last one-half longer than by the old plan of the rub board. It will wash the largest blanket. Three shirts at a time, washing thoroughly! In a word, the ablution of any fabric, from a Quilt to a Lace Curtain or Cambric Handkerchief, are equally within the capacity of the LITTLE GEM! It can be fastened to any tub and taken of at will
No matter how deep rooted a prejudice may exist against Washing Machines, the moment this little machine is seen to perform its wonders, all doubts of its cleansing efficacy and utility are banished, and the doubter and detractor at once becomes the fast friends of the machine.
We have testimonials without end, setting forth its numerous advantages over all others, and from hundreds who have thrown aside the unwieldy, useless machines, which have signally failed to accomplish the object promised in prominent and loud sounding advertisements.
It is as perfect for washing as a wringer is for wringing. The price another paramount inducement to purchasers, has been placed so low that it is within the reach of every housekeeper and there is no article of domestic economy that will repay the small investment so soon.
$5.50.
All that is asked for this GREAT LABOR SAVER, is a fair trial We guarantee each machine to do its work perfectly.

HOMES—A WORD TO WORKMEN.

Workingmen have a very short road to independence and comfort if they will only take it. It is by organization, too—only their organization is not against the men who employ and pay them, but for themselves. A movement of this kind has been tried in New York and success has proved that it is no experiment or theory, and at this time several organizations are being formed to attempt to repeat the success that attended the earlier trial.

A number of years ago several workingmen conceived the idea of securing a body of themselves, one thousand in number, to bind themselves to lay by $1.50 a week for one year, towards buying for themselves a tract of ground on which to build homes. The thousand names were secured, and due care being taken to secure only sober, industrious and prudent subscribers, the money, at the end of the year, was also on hand. The sum was $78,000, with a little savings interest added. As soon, however, as $25,000 was to their credit in bank, they began to look around for a location.—decided, prudently, to buy only the best land, as they were buying homes for themselves and their children. Attention was called to the fine location of a new suburban village, sloping back and across the New Haven Railroad, which was then just begun, The society decided on it, and paid $10,000 down on the contract, the rest to be paid in a few months. Long before the year was out the remainder of the purchase money, $40,000 was paid down and the control of the village in their own hands. So great was the desire of other workingmen to join and live with them that it was found needful very soon to purchase one hundred acres adjoining and lay it out. This village of Mount Vernon, is now one of the finest and most thriving of the suburban clusters of New York, and every morning it sends forth its swarm of happy, smiling faces, to push and drive for the day the great industries of the great city.

The scheme is being mooted again in New York, although under disadvantage, as now it is necessary to go twenty or thirty miles out of town to find a location, and then perhaps a mile or two off the road. As time is an essential value to the workman, and a most important part of his capital, this almost destroys the whole plan. A workingman's village now should be directly on the line of railway, and not more than seven or eight miles out of town at farthest. The rule of selection should be not to go over half an hour's distance in time. This will make an hour going and returning, and is all a poor man can spare.

Fortunately Philadelphia has yet every advantage, and we would like to see our workingmen begin to-day to avail themselves of them. There is no reason why this very week should not see one but a dozen workingmen's organizations started to secure for themselves the blessings of home and independence.—Suitable tracts of land can yet be had within ten miles of Philadelphia on roads which have depots in the city and with street-car communication to and from. More than this, land can be bought here not only within a reasonable distance, but at far cheaper prices than it ever could be bought around New York.

Again, the Philadelphia workingman at the present rate of wages need not limit himself to $1.50 a week. There is no workingman in this city, young or old, married or unmarried, who really wants a home and is worthy of one, who cannot lay by $2 per week. At this sum five hundred men would accumulate over $52,000 in one year, which is all that [illegible] necessary to start on; and the [illegible] the organization of course [illegible] ily it is raised and hand[illegible]

The advantage of [illegible] would not cease [illegible] ing of a house [illegible] blessing. T[illegible] ed money fo[illegible] something [illegible] acquired [illegible] mulation, is strengthened in the consciousness of the possession of property, begins to experinece the self-reliance and prudence of the capitalist and landowner, and his self respect and influence growing and widening, is on the high way to fortune and power.

Here is something better than the International, because it builds instead of tearing down—because it organizes for society instead of against it—because it aims to make every man a capitalist instead of robbing those who are; and the capital that it offers, too, is not merely the aggregation of moneys—it is the solid capital of health, content, and happiness, that treasure which neither moth nor rust can corrupt nor thieves break through and destroy.—Phila, Press, Jan 16th, '72.

AN INCIDENT IN THE LIFE OF COL. JAMES FISK, JR.

In a short sketch of the life of Col. James Fisk, Jr., by Oliver Dyer, we find the following story showing how near he came to capturing $500,000,000 of British gold:

He (Fisk) went South in the winter of 1864 and '65 to buy cotton, and as the Confederacy began to weaken under the pressure of Grant and Sherman, he saw the surrender of Lee looming in the distance, and then, taking the whole situation into the account, he conceived one of the

that ever came from the brain of man. The Confederate bonds were then selling at $80 on the $100 in London. Fisk saw that the moment the news of the collapse of the Confederacy should reach that city the bonds would tumble indefinitely; and what prodigious opportunities that might afford!

"If I could only get a man into London a few days ahead of all competitors," he said to himself, "after I knew the Confederacy had gone up, what a haul he could make selling those bonds short."

He at once came to New York; took a few other capitalists into his confidence, and unfolded his plans to them; they saw the point, and agreed to furnish all the money that should be necessary in addition to what Fisk had himself, and told him to go ahead.

Mr. Fisk immediately purchased the fastest ocean steamer afloat; manned her with a skillful captain and trustworthy crew; sent her to Halifax, with orders to bank her fires and have steam on ready to shoot from the wharf at a moment's notice; placed on board of her a trusty and capable agent, from whom the captain was to receive his orders to start, and who was to work the scheme in London, made such arrangements with fifty miles of telegraph wire that no one could get the news ahead of him, and then awaited the result of the fighting down in Virginia. For thirteen days the fires of that great steamer Halifax were kept banked, with every man at his post, and everything in readiness for instant departure. At last the death-blow of the Confederacy was struck.

"Go!" was the word that the lightning hurled at Fisk's agent in Halifax; and away went the steamer, with not a soul on board (except the one confidential man) having the slightest inkling of the news which was already beginning to set the western continent ablaze.

There was no Atlantic cable in those days; and so fortune favoring, the swift gliding steamer would arrive at Liverpool a long way ahead of any other craft which could bring the news. Fortune did favor the adventure. The steamer crossed from Halifax in six days and a half, and reached Liverpool five days in advance of the arrival of the first steamer that left New York with the news.—What could not have been done in those five days? But alas! one poor old weak kneed associate, unbeknown to Fisk, had secretly telegraphed to the agent at Halifax not to go beyond five millions in his London sales of Confederate bonds.—The agent sold five millions of bonds short, at the rates then ruling in the London market. Before the day of delivery came about the surrender arrived, and the bonds tumbled to twenty-two dollars on the hundred. The London brokers of course paid the difference (as, the benefit of the readers not familiar with such transactions, we will state is the custom), between the price they have agreed to pay and the day of delivery, which difference amounted to over two millions of dollars. The profit on the speculation was, therefore, a handsome one after deducting all expenses, but it was a mere drop in the bucket in comparison with what it would have b[illegible] had the other parties to the ente[illegible] been as sagacious[illegible] Fisk was. His [illegible] erate bonds [illegible] anybody w[illegible] the mar[illegible] the [illegible] f[illegible]

ONE ARGUMENT FOR TWO TERMS.

A President, Governor, Prothonotary, or any other officer desiring a re-election, will so conduct himself, naturally, as to secure that good will upon which hangs the election in a country like our own, where the people rule.

Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson and Lincoln pleased the people and won a re-election.

The two Adamses, Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore and Johnson did not satisfy the people, and were defeated—the first three by non-election, and the last three by lack of even a nomination by their friends.

As many have been re-elected as were defeated in their hope of that honor.

Supposing it was admitted that "one in office will try to pave their way to secure his re-election." Of what avail were all the officers under those defeated Presidents, as against the people's will? Read the election returns, and see how they were ousted!

But it may be said that a President, illegally or improperly using his power for his own election, may, if ineligible to another term, use all that power for any other man he might prefer. Witness the successful effort of Jackson to elect Van Buren—of Tyler to defeat Clay—the unsuccessful effort of Pierce to defeat Taylor, and of Buchanan to defeat Lincoln! A bad man will abuse his powers, whether he is himself a candidate, or whether he has sold or bargained his influence to another bad man.

The strongest motive for an honorable, sagacious, ambitious man, is to desire a re-election. The people can pass upon him. But if he serves only one term he has not such motive in as high a degree; and the people cannot pass upon him.

Without professing to arrive at any conclusion, I suggest these thoughts upon the general subject, for honest, candid men, and not for the Soreheads or Copperheads who have suddenly been converted to the "one term principle" merely as a cover for their opposition to Gen. Grant. But I would remind even those that the proposed Amendment can not—even if ultimately deemed advisable—be adopted in time to prevent the re-nomination and re-election of Gen. Grant. Should it finally prevail, he must necessarily promulgate it, but it will be a "water haul" in its present aspect as a bar to his filling a second term.—Columbia Spy.

BOUNTY LAND TO SOLDIERS.—Hon. L. D. Shoemaker offered the following Bill in Congress. It was read twice, and we hope it will become a law. It would be well for the Soldiers of this county to draw up and sign a petition asking for its passage.

Granting bounty-land to certain persons and naval service of the United States from and after the fourth day of March, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-one.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That each and every officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, or private of the Army, including regulars, volunteers, militia, and drafted men, or any officer, warrant or petty officer, musician, seaman, ordinary seaman, flotillaman, marine, clerk, landsman, pilot, or other person in the Navy or Marine Corps, who shall have been enrolled or mustered in the service of the United States since the fourth day of March, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-one, and prior to the fifteenth day of April, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-five, and who shall have served a period of not less than ninety days, shall, on satisfactory evidence of such service being furnished the Commissioner of Pensions be entitled to receive a certificate or warrant from the Department of the Interior for one hundred and sixty acres of land: Provided, That the person so having been in service shall not receive said land-warrant if it shall anppear from the records of the War Department that he deserted or was dishonorably discharged from service: And provided further, That the benefit of this section shall be held to extend to wagon-masters and teamsters who may have been employed, under the direction of competent authority, in the transportation of military stores and supplies.

SEC. 2. That in case of [illegible] person, who, if living, [illegible] to a certificate or [illegible] under this act, [illegible] no widow, such [illegible] shall be entitled [illegible] or warrant [illegible] land as [illegible] entitled [illegible] of the [illegible] a [illegible] the [illegible] provisions of existing law regulating the assignment, transfer, and location of bounty-land warrants.

SEC. 6. That the registers and the receivers of the several land-offices shall be severally authorized to charge and receive, for their services in locating all warrants under the provision of this act, the same compensation or percentage to which they are entitled by law for sales of public lands, for cash, at the rate of one dollar and twenty-five cents per acre, the said compensation to be paid by the assignees or holders of such warrants.

SEC. 7. That nothing herein contained shall be so construed as to entitle a person to the benefits of the provisions of this act who has heretofore received or become entitled to a certificate or warrant under the provisions of any prior act.

OUR FIRESIDE FRIEND.—This is the name of a new eight-page original and illustrated story and family weekly, published by Messrs. Waters, Eberts & Co., Chicago. The paper presents a neat and pleasing appearance, and exhibits much taste in its make-up. Its contents are varied, and rich in interest and full of instruction. It contains well-written continued stories of great interest, beautifully-illustrated, and entertaining short stories, sketches, poems, etc., with departments especially devoted to the Farmer, the Housewife and Children. One of the principal features of the number is Will. M. Carleton's great Poem, "The Burning of Chicago," which the Publishers have beautifully illustrated. Our Fireside Friend will find a welcome in every family circle. The Publishers will send a specimen copy free to any address.

THE full text, says the State Journal, of M. Gortschakoff's note to Mr. Curtin on the Cataeazy matter has at last reached America by mail. Upon careful inspection, it shows that the Russian Premier severely feels the defeat of his little scheme; but its tone as compared with the first sketch that was sent us, is like velvet to sand paper. The report of a breach between the two governments was utterly groundless, and the "impertinence" of the note lay only in the imagination of the correspondent. Minister Curtin's genial and urbane characteristics have made him so wonderfully popular with the diplomats of St. Petersburg and the royal family, that he is fully able to counteract Fish's mistakes and Gortschakoff's irascibility.

A gentleman from Bethel Hill, Me., says that Messrs. Allen Bros., proprietors of Philip Allen's Print Works R. I., were down to Bryant's Pond recently trouting, when one of them was attacked with sciatic rheumatism so suddenly, that he had to be carried from the pond to his hotel; a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment was resorted to, and he was out next day.

How are you to-day? I'm not feeling well, bilious and sick headache, have been looking around for a box of Parsons' Purgative Pills, but our traders are all sold out.—Country Paper.

In the Catholic diocese of Harrisburg there are 33 priests, 17 ecclesiastical students, 49 churches, 25 chapels and stations, 3 academies, 11 parochial schools and 6 convents with 44 sisters.

THE WEEK,

A RESUME OF CURRENT OPINION, HOME AND FOREIGN.

THE WEEK fills a place unoccupied hitherto in American journalism, though its importance has long ago been demonstrated in England. From week to week it presents the cream of home and foreign journalism, and gathers from the leading papers of America and England, and of all sections and parties, the most important utterances on current questions of Politics, Society, Religion, Literature, Science, Art, Music, the Drama, and all other topics likely to interest the reader. In addition to the longer articles, which themselves cover every variety of subject, there is Literary Gossip, Science and Art Gossip, Musical and Dramatic Gossip, and General Notes and News, giving the freshest and most copious intelligence in all these departments In no other paper can be found so large and so various an amount of instructive and entertaning reading matter.

The first No. of The Week was published on December 2d of last year, and in the short space of two months has achieved a most decided and flattering success. No paper has ever received more cordial words from the press and the critics, and it is the general testimony that The Week has met an important and well-defined want in the journalism of America.

Read what the Press says.

THE WEEK is the title of a new paper which bids fair to fill a void in New York journalism. It is filled with a selection of the more noticeable articles of the various daily papers—not editorial merely, but extracts also from news and correspondence. Thus at a glance the busy man who has had no leisure to see more than one, if any, daily paper during the week, gets the cream of the entire newspaper literature—not the metropolitan only, but of other cities, and to some extent of foreign capitals also.—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE WEEK is a new paper which ought to take a permanent place in American journalism. Possessed of it the reader will find that he can dispense with most other journals and still keep abreast of the most enlightened current opinion on Politics, Society, Religion, Art, Music, and the Drama, and the like.—Springfield Republican.

THE WEEK is the title of a new paper whose idea we like. The selections are well made, and we hope THE WEEK will find abundant patronage.—Independent.

Its success ought not to be a matter of doubt.—Chicago Journal.

THE WEEK is a 16 page paper of large size, with three broad columns to the page, and is neatly and tastefully printed.

TERMS—$3 a year; single copy 8 cents. Trial subscription, 4 consecutive numbers for 25 cents.

Treatment of Breeding Sows.

The mode of management of pigs depends, of course, upon the state at which they are, and the purpose for which they are kept; our greatest care being naturally demanded in the case of the farrowing sow. The sow should not be over-fed; while in pig great loss is often sustained through having great, bulky, over-fed sows; the litter is rarely a successful one; the pigs are not strong, and it will be odd indeed, if the heavy, lumbering animal does not overlie more than one of her young ones in addition to her self running the risk of having sundry complaints, one of which may carry her off. Neither should the sow be kept lean, but in what is called good middling condition. A short time before she is expected to farrow, nourishing food must be given her, to ensure her having a good supply of milk for her litter; but this will require to be done judiciously. It is scarcely necessary to say that the sow while she goes with pig should not be worried nor knocked about; exercise is quite a different thing, and should not be denied her. A very important point in the management of breeding sows is the condition of the bowels just before she is expected to farrow; these should be kept open by giving her food of a slightly laxative tendency, and she will be none the worse, but much the better, if she has a slight dose of sulphur, nitre, and ginger. A little trouble on this point will be well repaid. We have known many a sow sacrificed from want of attention to her bowels at or before the period of her farrowing.—After she has farrowed, if she shows symptoms of uneasiness, or any indications of inflamation about her teats, a dose of the above medicine will give her ease.

We have seen this simple medicine administered with great success even in what might be called critical cases After the sow is farrowed attention will have to be paid to her feeding.—Strong food should not be given; light mashes, chiefly of milk and meal, will be the best for her, as milk has a binding tendency, care should be taken to see that her bowels are in good condition. Comparatively little food should be required by the sow for the first seven or eight days, and this as just said should be of a slight character.—Many valuable sows are lost through want of attention to feeding after the sow has farrowed. Her ordinary food, when it is returned to, should be given moderately at first, increasing the quantity. The straw supplied to the sow for bedding when she is farrowing, and after the litter is out, should not be long, for the young pigs are apt to get under the straw and get smothered or overlaid by the sow. Chaffs is recommended by some, but we prefer straw cut by the straw cutter into three-quarter inch lengths. The young pigs are apt to eat chaff, and this again to act prejudicial on their health. We had an instance lately of the caution necessary to be taken in all details.—Our man used a quantity of flax or hemp refuse. Of more than one fine litter of pigs several died through severe constipation, brought on without any apparent cause, till it occurred to us that it might arise from the pigs eating their bedding. We had two or three opened, when the stuff was found in them concreted into hard lumps.—Cor. London Field.

THE President's father, Jesse R. Grant, has tendered his resignation as postmaster at Covington, Ky.

Preservation of Hen Manure.

We cannot overvalue the manurial product of the henhouse, nor exercise too much care in its preservation. If thrown into the compost heap or deposited with the hog manure, nearly all its good qualities would be retained very likely, but we would advise a different course. Nearly every one wants a little fancy manure for special purposes in the spring, and instead of buying guano and superphosphates of doubtful quality, he can manufacture his own at a far less cost from the droping of the hen.

We have found it a good plan to sprinkle dry earth under the roosts, or peat is nearly as good, road dust or scrapings collected during a dry spell, and put away in boxes or barrels for use in winter or spring. By using this three or four times a week, and oftener in warm weather, all bad oder is prevented and the escape of the fertilizing properties of the manure is arrested. Gypsum would answer as well as earth. If shoveled into a pile as the weather grows warm, it will slowly ferment, and if closely watched and shoveled over when undue heat is generated, the process will add to its value for the spring's crop, as it becomes decomposed by fermentation and its particles separated and mingled with the earth used as a deoderizer, and its crudeness changed so as to be more readily appropriated by growing plants.

Last year I used about fifteen bushels of this kind of manure and found it to be a very active fertilizer. For potatoes and corn I applied in the hill; mixing with that used for potatoes, about one fourth its bulk of unleached wood ashes, dropping it in the hill and covering it with the foot as I went along immediately after the ashes were incorporated with it. By covering immediately, the earh tabsorbed any ammonia set free by the ashes as they act like lime in this respect, and should not be mixed with manure in a state of fermentation; nor is it advisable to do so at any time, unless it is applied to the soil immediately. On garden vegetables this manure had a very marked effect. Nearly every farmer can save enough of this kind of manure to give his garden a start.—Cor. Rural Home.

Work for the Winter.

While other work is slack, attention may be given to the large rocks upon the farm. These can as well be properly drilled in the winter as at at any other season of the year. Blasting can be deferred until the ground has become sufficiently thawed to enable one to dig around them and leave them free from external pressure. Many of the holes, during rains, or rather melting of snow, will fill with water, which freezing, will often break the rocks, thus avoiding any occasion for blasting.

Drawing your plaster at this season that you may have it ready for use in the spring. Select your clover seed now, and use none but the best. This is the time to look up seed for next season. Get the best; no matter at what cost. Poor seed gives poor crops, poor crops bring poor prices, and poor prices make poor farmers.

Don't permit a single animal to fall off in flesh; keep them up in good heart. Look well to the manure pile; none of it waste; save all, every particle. A waste of manure is a stinting of your next crops. Throw the horse manure behind the cows, that it may soak up the liquid. Mix the various manures and there will be less waste. Don't forget the dropping from the pigs and fowls. Save all. Keep your road horses well and sharp shod; many a fine animal has been ruined by neneglect in this matter. Don't let any brood animal have any opportunity to wander upon ice; know where they are. A little slip will frequently produce a premature birth, and a fall is almost sure to do so. In mild weather, scrape the rough bark from the fruit trees, and wash them with soap suds.

THE proper time for cutting wheat is when the straw below the ear begins to turn yellow, and when the kernel, pressed between the fingers, has the consistency of dough—wheat left to mature until it is dead ripe, scatters considerably, and there is also much loss in the breaking off of the heads.

FROM present indications we may reasonably expect, at no distant period, to see agriculture, from the perfection of its processes, enabled to assume that high position among the industrial arts which is justly claimed for it on the ground of its pre-eminence as a means of national prosperity.

OVER one hundred ladies now manage post offices throughout the country, four of whom receive salaries of $4,000 per annum each.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic.

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article! A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients, and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience o it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. REMEMBER

THAT

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S PODOPHYLLIN,

Or Substitue for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, regulates the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain its hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. Medical.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseasses of the Throat and Lungs, Such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so wide and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to cold and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgements we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remidies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either residence in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the Ague Cure daily

For Liver Complaints, arise from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Billous Disorders and Liver complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

The Pittsburgh Commercial!

A PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE!

The "Presidential year" is always a reading year with the American people. It imposes extraordinary duties on journals from which the people may usually expect not only the news of the day, but intelligent discussion of public questions and enunciation of opinions.—While this is true in a general sense, the year before us is likely, in a political sense, to be one of unsual interest;—the Democratic party is breaking up, and there are indications of alliances and purposes altogether novel in our politics. The elections of the past year have resulted in almost an unbroken series of Republican victories. General Grant's administration his received the unequivocal indorsement of the American people; and there is every indication now that, as the Republican candidate, he will be re-elected President. As an INDEPENDENT REPUBLICAN PAPER the COMMERCIAL will in the future, as in the past, render an undeviating support to Republican Principles, holding that the good of the Republic requires that the Government should remain in the hands of the party that saved it in the great life-or-death struggle. In the future as in the past it will speak its own views regarding men and measures, holding that through free discussion only can safe conclusions be reached and the independence of the press preserved. In this regard we can say simply that the COMMERCIAL will be true to itself and its established character.

As a Newspaper, nothing will be spared to maintain the position which the COMMERCIAL has always held among the leading journals of the day, for news enterprise as well for independent opinions. This year, at home and abroad, will be full of interest. European politics are agitated, and the American reader will likely find much in them to attract his attention. At home all is life and push. Railroads are being constructed everywhere; new projects are almost daily proclaimed; population is increasing; enterprise intelligently directed was never so well rewarded, and the prospect for the wonderful activities of our country is, to say the least, extremely encouraging. With all these things the COMMERCIAL is intimately identified, and as a Business Paper, at the center of the greatest manufacturing district on the continent, has constantly in view whatever of interest readers may reasonably expect to see in its columns,—especially carefully prepared marked reports manufacturing intelligence and general news, collected at home and from abroad.

To our patrons we have only words of cheer. With some of our readers we have held pleasant relations for yerrs. It will be our aim to deserve the continuance of these relations for many years to come. We feel proud in the fact that the COMMERCIAL wields an influence second to no journal in the State. Its readers as a general thing are the influential, intelligent classes. In a circle of hundreds of miles, embracing nearly the whole of Pennsylvania, much of Ohio, West Virginia and States beyond, it is the favorite in the counting-house, the office, the store and the family, especially of business and cultivated classes. To hold this place will be our constant effort.

THE PITTSBURG DISPATCH.

Parties wishing a first-class daily paper should by all means subscribe for the Pittsburg DAILY DISPATCH one of the largest, liveliest and cheapest papers in the United States. The DISPATCH has been established over a quarter of a century; is independent in politics, advocating always those measures which promise the greatest possible good to the largest possible number; gives daily thirty-six columns of matter, embracing the latest news by telegraph, the most reliable market reports the latest cable telegrams, the freshest Legislative news, the latest Congressional reports, the fullest local reports, with all the news by mail, including the most interesting personal and political items, full telegraphic market reports from all points of importance, East and West, and much other matter of an entertaining and instructive character. The DISPATCH is furnished by mail at $8,00 a year, or may be had from our agents in any town or village within one hundred and fifty miles of Pittsburg at fifteen cents a week.

To those wishing a good and reliable city weekly we would recommend the WEEKLY DISPATCH, one of the handsomest, cheapest and most reliable weeklies published. The WEEKLY DISPATCH gives thirty-six columns of matter, printed in clear large type, and is one of the handsomest, as it has long been one of the cheapest, if not the cheapest weeklies in the country. It contains all the latest news of the day—political, commercial and general—and as an entertaining and acceptable family newspaper is not excelled by any journal in the State. The WEEKLY DISPATCH is furnished to single subscribers at $1 50 a year, or in clubs of ten to one address at $1 00 each, with a free paper to the party getting up the club. Subscribers may remit by mail either in money or by postoffice order, which is the safer mode. Postmasters receiving subscriptions for the DISPATCH, either Daily or Weekly, are authorized to retain twenty per cent, on published rates for single subscribers, or ten per cent, on our club rates. BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Wednesday Morning, January 31, 1872.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

We would call the special attention of postmasters and our subscribers to the followinw synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter, (returning a paper does not answer the law,) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken; and a neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publishers for payment.
2. Any person who takes a paper faom the post-office, whether directed to his name or another's, or whether he has subscribed or not, reponsible for the payment.
3. If a person orders his paper to be discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.
4. If the subscriber orders the paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it, if he takes it out of the post-office. The law proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.
5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima-facie evidence of intentional fraud.

EVERYBODY wants to hear Murdock, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 7th, at Reynolds' Hall.

A HOME.—Do not fail to read the story in the REPUBLICAN this week, entitled "Charity's Home."

SUCCESS.—The Williamsport Daily Gazette & Bulletin comes to us with a new head and otherwise improved. It is a spicy well edited paper, and deserves the success with which it is meeting.

HARD ON THEM.—Massachusetts tobacco chewers don't appear to enjoy many privileges. A Taunton man was fined $6 for spitting on a church carpet. In this town fines could be imposed frequently for similar offenses.

READ.—Everybody should read the advertisements. It is the way to ascertain the place to purchase the best goods and to learn who are, and who are not, enterprising merchants. The most reliable men in town advertise in the REPUBLICAN.

SEVERAL revivals of religion are in progress in different parts of Clearfield county. Many persons have been added to the churches. We hope the good work will go on, for it is the only way by which those hard-shell Democrats of Clearfield can ever be reached, and the county redeemed from the Wallace ring.

GLASS WORKS.—The Glass Works, at this place, under the management of the new firm, Messrs. Curtins, Loeb & Co., are being run to their full capacity, manufacturing, every day, more than double the quantity made hitherto. They are finding ready sale for it, and have in contemplation the erection of another furnace. Why not, when it is universally conceded that Bellefonte glass is the best manufactured in the world?

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—On the evening of the 29th inst., at about 10 o'clock, the passenger train east of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, ran off the track about two and-a-half miles East of Lock Haven. The train was badly wrecked, the stoves upset and cars fired. Many passengers were injured, among whom was our townsman. Mr. Williams, Deputy Sheriff of the county. We hope the Sheriff will recover from his injuries speedily.

A PUBLIC Meeting for the benefit of the Safe Guards of Bellefonte will be held in the Wigwam on Thursday evening, February 1st, commencing precisely at half past seven o'clock A good speaker from abroad has been engaged. Appropriate music, vocal and instrumental, will be provided. All the exercises of the meeting are intended for the promotion of good morals among the youth of this village. Cordial invitation is extended to all.

REVIVAL.—The protracted meeting, commenced four weeks since, in the M. E. Church in this place, is still progressing with the most glorious results. We understand that the number who have experienced the "joys of pardoned sin" is over one hundred, eighty-four of whom have attached themselves to the church. The faithful pastor in charge, Rev. James Mullen, has labored night and day with the most untiring energy, and is, truly, according to the promise, receiving "souls for his hire," seals to his ministry. It is a gracious revival.—May the good work go on.

LECTURE IN BOALSBURG.—Rev. J. M. Rice, A. M., formerly Lutheran Missionary at Muhlenburg Mission, Liberia, Africa, has consented to deliver a Lecture on "Africa and African Customs," on Tuesday evening, Feb. 6th, in the Lutheran Church, at Boalsburg. As the Lecture is designed for the benefit of the Sabbath School of the Church, an admission fee of 25 cents is charged, the proceeds to be devoted to the purchase of books for the S. S. Library. We urge all who can, to attend as the Lecture promises to be very interesting and instructive. We learn that the Lutheran Sabbath School, of Boalsburg, is in a prosperous condition and that they have recently fitted up their infant school room and arranged their Library with glass front.

EXECUTIVE COUNTY COMMITTEE.—In obedience to the call of E. M. Blanchard, Esq., Chairman, a respectable portion of the Executive Committee convened on Wednesday, the 24th inst., at the office of E. & E. M. Blanchard, for the purpose of electing a Representative delegate to the State Convention, also three Senatorial Conferees. E. Blanchard was President by virtue of his office. The Convention being fully organized, a vote was taken which resulted in the following selections, to wit: James P. Coburn, Esq., of Aaronsburg, having received the highest number of votes for Representative Delegate to the State Convention which meets on the 10th of April next, was declared elected. Col. W. W. Brown, Wm. P. Wilson, Esq., and James H. Rankin, Esq., were declared the Senatorial Conferees.

A vote was taken to ascertain the sense of the meeting in regard to Centre county's choice of candidates named for Gubernatorial honors, when the Convention declared in favor of Gen. John H. Hartranft. The vote stood three to one in that gentleman's favor. After which the Convention closed in due form.

LEVI A. MILLER, Sect'y.

COCOA Camphorine will cure the worst case of chapped hands. Sold only at Green's.

RAILROAD MEETING.—It is with pleasure we direct the attention of the readers of the REPUBLICAN to the advertisement signed by Moses Thompson, Sam'l Stover, Wm. J. Thompson, Walter Graham, James A. Beaver and James Milliken, Esqs., Commissioners of the "Willow Bank & Burns Spring R. R. Co. It will be seen that a meeting for the purpose of opening books of subscription, will be held in Bellefonte, at the office of McAllister & Beaver, on Monday the 19th day of February.

This is claimed, by its friends and projectors, to be the shortest and most direct route from Bellefonte to Lewistown at the same time shortening the distance from this place to Philadelphia about 51 miles, which would be a big item in the saving of freight, taking into consideration the enormous and exorbitant rates now charged. It has been a wonder to us why this road was not built seven or eight years ago. We hope the Commissioners, capitalists, merchants, farmers, and all true friends of this road will go to work at once with the most determined energy, and "push things."

AT a meeting of the Bellefonte Excursion party to Lock Haven, after its return, his Honor C. A. Mayer presiding, the following resolutions were passed:

WHEREAS, Geo. C. Wilkens, Esq., Superintendent of Branch Roads obliged the citizens of Bellefonte with a special train to Lock Haven and return, on the evening of the 29th inst., to attend the Lecture of John B. Gough; therefore Resolved, That the thanks of the Party are hereby tendered to Geo. C. Wilkins, Esq., the obliging Supt. of B. E. V. Railroad, for furnishing so neat and comfortable cars for the occasion.

Resolved, That the thanks of the party are hereby tendered to the gentlemanly conductor Jas. Waddle, and his crew, for the agreeable and accommodating manner in which they run the train.

Resolved, that the thanks of the party are hereby tendered to the Lock Haven Silver Cornet Band, for the musical reception given the party on its arrival at Lock Haven and their escort to the Opera House.

C. A. MAYER, President.
JNO G. LOVE, Secretary.

THE Largest and Cheapest lot of Toilet Soap ever brought to this county, is for sale at Green's Drug Store.

LECTURE.—James E. Murdoch, the celebrated Elocutionist and Lecturer, and one of the most forcible and able personifiers of Shakspear's celebrated characters, will Lecture in Reynolds Hall, on Wednesday evening the 7th of February next.

The Lecture will be given under the auspices of the Undine Fire Company. The reputation and character of the Lecturer is such as to guarantee a good and full consideration to every purchaser of a ticket. They will get the worth of their money.

We feel assured in saying that every person who goes to hear Murdock will be agreeably satisfied and amply paid, by a feast of mirth and instruction. Let the hall be filled. In the language of Gough it "Will Pay" all around.

LOGAN FIRE CO., No. 1.—This excellent company held their first meeting for the present year, on Wednesday evening, the 24th inst. They unanimously adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Logan Fire Company, No. 1, do hereby welcome our new fire company, to wit: the Undine Fire Company, No. 2, into the Fire Department of Bellefonte, and do heartily and sincerely hope and pray that the strictest unity and harmony may prevail between the two companies, as the same is absolutely necessary to the promotion of the welfare and efficiency of the entire Department.

The above resolution breathes the true spirit, and shows that the hearts of the Logan boys are in the right place. We sincerely hope that there will be no quarreling between these two energetic companies, and that they may all be old men, before they are necessitated to bring out their engines to distinguish themselves or extinguish a fire.

FOR Coughs and Colds, use Green's Cough Syrup of Tar. It is pleasant, safe and sure.

PUBLIC SALES.—Up to the hour of going to press this week, we have printed handbills for the following sales:—On the 3th day of February, Mr. John C. Sheneberger, at his residence near Boalsburg, in Harris twp., will offer at public sale, 2 head of work horses, 3, 3 year old colts, 1 yearling colt, 4 fresh milch cows, 4 head of young cattle, 1 breeding sow, 8 shoats, 1 threshing machine, skaker and power, 1 Keystone harvester, 1 hay-rake, plows, harrows, cultivators, 1 two horse wagon, with a large variety of useful farming implements. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock, P. M., of said day. A reasonable credit will be given.

—On Thursday, the 22d of February, John G. Rimmey, residing at Wilson's Mill, in Harris twp., will sell at public sale, 4 good horses, 4 milch cows, 10 head of young cattle, 6 hogs, 1 separator and power, 1 four-horse wagon, 1,2-horse wagon, cook stove, plows, harrows, cultivators, horse gears, together with a general assortment of farming utensils. Sale to commence at 10 o'clk A. M., of said day. A reasonable credit.

—On Saturday the 10th day of February, Leonard Leighty, Esq., at his residence at Pleasant Gap, Spring twp., will sell the following property: 1 good five year old mare, 1 good spring wagon, 2 set of harness, 1 saddle and bridle, 1 set of first class carpenter tools, 1 good turning lathe; also a lot of household furniture. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock, P. M., of said day, when terms will be made known and a reasonable credit given. Jos. Neff, Auctioneer.

Persons who wish to sell their property at public sale, should bring their posters to the REPUBLICAN office. We will print them as cheap as can be done elsewhere, and insert a local notice of said sale, in our paper, free of charge.—Job work of all kinds neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN office. Do not forget the place.

DON'T forget Murdoch, Feb. 7th, at Reynolds' Hall.

RAIL ROAD.—Our fellow townsman Wm. P. Macmannus, left home on Monday the 22nd inst., to make a survey of a Railroad now in contemplation from a point on Penns Creek to Milroy. We have not learned the full particulars, but understand the survey was commenced at a point on the L. C. & S. C. Railroad near the mouth of Rapid run where the tunnel passes through Paddy's mountain; thence by the gap in which is located the old State road from Hartleton in Union county, to Milroy, in Mifflin Co., where it enters Havice valley, which it follows to Siglarville by Lock's and Sterrett's mills to Nagney Station, on the Mifflin and Centre County Railroad.

This is a cheap line to build, with easy grades, and will make the distance from the forks of Penns Creek, near Millheim to Nagney,s station about 18 miles. Mr. Macmannus is emphatically one of the best civil engineers in this country, and we think that the friends of that road were fortunate in securing his services. He returned home on Monday last, almost a cripple, having frozen his feet in a horrible manner. We suppose that so soon as he is able, he will perfect his survey, locate the road and make an official report. The friends of this route are in great earnest and sanguine of its early completion. Let it come, say we, the more Railroads the better for everybody.

REPORT of Milesburg School, Grade No. 1 for the month ending January 23d 1872. F. W. Campbell, Teacher. Whole number in attendance, 34; per cent. of attendance, for month, 90; Spelling, 34; Reading, 34; Writing, 34; Mental Arithmatic, 34; Written Arithmatic, 34; Geography, 34; Grammar, 34; Composition, 34; U. S. History, 20; Physiology, 10; Algebra, 4; Vocal Music and Scripture exercises, daily. Seven pupils have not missed a day, viz; Carrie Green, Laura Mitchell, Thomas Miles, Joseph Rodgers, John Parsons, Willie Levy, and Mahlon Fryberger. Clayton Poorman, Lucian Jones, Wilson Laird, Willison Furey, and Ida Hall absent only one day.

The following is a correct list of the number of words missed in spelling 1000 words in Parker and Watson's National Pronouncing Speller, commencing on page 154.—dictation exercises. Class A. Lillie Adams, 1; Carrie Green, 2; Rachel Moore, 2; Millie Boggs, 20; Margie McGhee, 3; Clayton Poorman, 3; Lucian Jones, 9.

LIST of Letters remaining in the Bellefonte Post office, and unclaimed, Jan. 29, 1872:

David Emet, Oscar Andrews, Miss N Burkholder, Miss T C Bull, Miss D Briant, Frank A Chamberlain, John Cunillen, Miss Annie Crock-2, Lamence Fitzpatrick, Mary Ann Gallagher, Mrs Maria Harris, Mrs A E Hamey, John Havard, Miss Ellie Homel, David Kauffman, Miss Annie Munson, Elizabeth Miller Theo McNichal, Wm Orner, John Resides, Mary I Rakestraw, Elizabeth Smith, Mrs Annie Shaw, Miss Clara Shuey, Shee Shooe, Miss Annie Tate, Miss Hattie Wheeler, Miss Annie Williams, D C Way, Henry Warper,

GOOD.—The Harrisburg State Journal says that "The newspaper is to the people what the sign-board is to the traveler. The paper tells who is in business and where to trade, as the sign-board tells the name of the place and the direction to it."

FOR Toilet Soap, go to Green's.

PERSONAL.—James Gilliland, formerly a citizen of this county, but now a resident of Montgomery county, Md., paid our sanctum a visit yesterday. He is a very clever man and useful citizen and we were sorry to see him with his arm in a sling. He has been nursing a fellon for three months.

—Henry Keller, Esq., of Harris tp., also paid us a visit. He is an excellent man, was a few years ago, a member of the board of County Commissioners. We had no ring then and the county taxes were but 2½ Mills on the dollar. Now we have six mills. We think the farmers will not endure this much longer and that they will make a clean sweep in a year or two more.

—R. H. Duncan, the enterprising railroad man whose whole energies are devoted to the early and final completion of the L. C. & S. C. R. R., could not pass us without a few minutes talk. He reports the Railroad progressing.

—Jos. G. McMeen, a native of this county, but now a resident of Chicago, was indeed, a welcome visitor. He is a first class druggist—always urbane, and therefore, bound to succeed no matter where he may choose to locate. He was a severe sufferer, by the late fire in Chicago. Come again.

—Michael Spicher, one of Potter townships enterprising, wide-awake Republican citizens, also cheered us up with the light of his pleasant countenance. These men all thought, and rightly too, that the Printer could not live without his money. They came down handsomely. We say to all of our readers, who are yet in arrears, come and do likewise.

A MUSICAL CONVENTION.—A Musical Convention, under the leadership of Prof. Hager, will open in Howard borough on Tuesday Feb. 6th, and continue during the week, closing with a grand concert on Saturday evening of the same week. The proceeds are all to go to the benefit of the M. E. Church at that place. This convention was originally fixed for the first week in January; but a few cases of small-pox occurring in the borough, it was deemed advisable and prudent to postpone it. Our neighbors are now happily rid of this loathsome disease, and hope to have a good time at their convention. The Concert on Saturday evening, promises to be one of the greatest which has ever been given in this county. Mrs. Ira C. Mitchell, Principal of the Milesburg Musical Institute, is expected to be present and lend her aid. Mr. B. Lauth, proprietor of the Howard Iron Works and his daughter Mrs Comeford, both of whom are musicians of the highest order of talent, have kindly consented to take part in the exercises, and a new and elegant piano, from the extensive works of the Excelsior Manufacturing Co. at Williamsport, Pa., has been secured for their use. The managers, therefore, we think, are justified in promising those who may attend, a musical treat of no ordinary merit.

For the REPUBLICAN.

HOWARD, PA., Jan. 23, 1872.

MESSRS. EDITORS:

It is true that our borough has been, to a certain extent, afflicted with the small pox scourge which is so prevalent through the country; but the reports in regard to it which have in some quarters obtained credence, are so grossly exaggerated that we deem it but justice to our community to present you the following statement of facts. We have had, all told, seven (7) cases, six of which were in one house and one family—Mr. Jonas Spangler's. Of these six, (two), Mr. Spangler and his infant child, proved fatal. The remainder of the family have entirely recovered, and the house has been thoroughly cleansed and disinfected by the proper authorities of the borough. The seventh patient, Mrs. Hogan, has also recovered, and her house has been thoroughly disinfected. There is not now a single case of the small-pox in our borough or vicinity, and as no new case has occurred for six weeks we feel justified in asserting that we are entirely rid of it.

CHANGE.—Mr. John Meese, who has been with D. M. Wagner, of this place, for over 10 years and chief clerk and book keeper the last six years of that time, has changed his position and is now in the employ of the enterprising firm of Loeb, May & Loeb, Allegheny street, Bellefonte, Pa. We have known Mr. Meese from his youth up, and we can testify, to his energy, faithfulness and good moral character; but we are happy to say that he needs not our commendation in this community. He is well and favorably known all over the county as a first class clerk—a man of the strictest honesty and integrity. We congratulate Messrs. Loeb, May & Loeb upon their good fortune, as well as foresight in securing the services of Mr. Meese. We do not think we put the case too strong when we say that it is better to them than the addition of $10,000 to their capital stock. We wish Mr. Meese and his employers unlimited success.

LOOK OUT FOR SWINDLES.—Jno. Hood Jr., a notorious fraud and Swindler, has sent a friend of ours, the following circular. He has no doubt, flooded the whole country with them. We insert it in the REPUBLICAN, so that none of our readers, or citizens of the county may be caught in this trap, in this disreputable business.

Dear Friend:—Your name having been given to me as a discreet and capable person, I invite your participation in the most profitable speculation named in the within sheet. As no one is acting for me just now in your neighbourhood I will for this once only, deviate from my usual custom of requiring all cash in advance, and to get you interested at once, make these liberal propositions.

On receipt of $10 by Express and the balance soon, I will send you $600 or if you prefer it, you may have $1200 of my goods; for $15 I will send $2.000 or for $20 $3.000. If you will forward $25 I will send $4.000 and give you a county right or for $50 by Express, I will send you $10.000 and the exclusive right for your State. You can then employ others to assist you. Different denominations will be sent as desired. The advance payment is required simply as evidence of sincerity. The balance must be paid soon. All letters must be sent by Express I receive no letters by mail. Of course, the above amounts must not be considered as full payment, but only as installments as evidence of your sincerity in carrying out the contract. It will be to your interest to pay the balance at the earliest possible moment after the goods arrive. I advise you to invest at once all the money you can spare, as such faultless goods may not always be so easily obtained. The terms are most liberal, besides there are great pecuniary advantages in buying largely, and any one really meaning business will not hesitate to make so small a payment. I know full well in making the proposition that the quality of my goods will secure your future patronage, and that you will not prejudice your best interests by acting in bad faith indeed you cannot afford to deceive me, as your future prosperity is at stake.

Can you make money quicker, easier, or surer? Act promptly and strain every nerve to commence at once. Order only by express. I do not receive letters by mail. Let me receive your favor soon, or some more enterprising fellow-townsman may obtain the commission. As this is a special offer, made only to you—in your locality—will you kindly return this letter to remind me of the concession made in your favor.

In F. L. & T., Fraternally Yours,
JOHN HOOD, JR.,
108 Broadway, New York.
Address only by Express.

If you desire a better understanding, I will be glad to see you at my private office named on the accompanying circular, and show samples. Then you will know exactly what you are buying. We have new issues of $10 and $20, and will send samples to the amount of $200 on an order of $25, as above, or $500 on an order of $50 worth. Send by express in all cases.

But John Hood, Jr., fearing that the people may suspect some trick in the above, sends out another circular, rather private in its character, with the alluring caption of "Read this Attentively." We have not room for this circular this week, but would caution everybody to be on their guard. There is not much danger of any one, except some thoughtless young man, being caught by this swindle.

"HOW TO GO WEST."—Forty years ago, Illinois was as far West as most people wished to go, and journeys were made in the legendary "Prairie Schooner," but in these days of Progress and Improvement, the word West has come to mean Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, California and the Territories, and the Traveler reaches almost any point therein by a splendid Line of Railroad.

This Line of Railroad is the Burlington Route, which starts from Chicago over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy R. R., from Indianapolis over the Indianapolis, Bloomington & Wester Short Line, and from Logansport, over the Toledo, Peoria & Warsaw R. R., and running through BURLINGTON, reaches Omaha, Lincoln, Nebraska City, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth and Kansas City, connecting with the Union Pacific, Kansas, Pacific and other Railroads running from those cities.

Always go "By way of Burlington," and you will be sure to be right,

The Burlington Route has admirably answered the question, "How to go West?" by the publication of a truthful and interesting document, filled with facts in regard to Time, Connections, Accommodations, rates of Fare and other interesting items, and illustrated by a large map, truthfully showing the whole West, which they distribute free of charge. Copies, and additional information, can be obtained by addressing, General Passenger Agent, B. & M. R. R., Burlington, Iowa. 4-3-3m.

ASTRONOMY.—Jupiter has ceased to be a morning star. From this time to Aug. 2d, it will be the "Star of the evening, beautiful star," according to astronomers.

To the Citizens of Centre County and Elsewhere.

Your attention is particularly requested to the following certificate referring to those old established remedies, "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS, and "HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC," from that well known citizen,

IRA C. MITCHELL, ESQ.:

"BELLEFONTE, PA., Oct. 27, 1871.

Sir:—I have just had the pleasure of meeting your Agent, the first representative of "Hoofland's German Bitters" and "Hoofland's German Tonic," it has ever been my good fortune to meet. For many years I have been purchasing and using them to the great comfort of myself, family and friends, having commenced their use on the recommendations of the Supreme Court Judges of this State. It affords me pleasure to have the opportunity to voluntarily recommend the same to all of my friends and acquaintances who may be suffering from Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Billiousness or affections of the Liver, of any kind.

Very Respectfully,
IRA C. MITHELL."

These medicines are and have been well known to the community for the last twenty-five years, as genuine, reliable and deserving remedies for the diseases mentioned in the above certificate. Those afflicted should not fail to use them. Sold by all Druggists. C. M. EVANS, Proprietor, 631, Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. 3-50-1y

STATEMENT CORRECTED.—The statement published on Saturday last, 13th inst, on authority of Alexander Delmar's newspaper, charging the Liverpool, London, and Globe Insurance Co. with improper financial transactions, proves, upon investigation, utterly untrue. 4-2t.

Go to Mrs. Nannie K. Dare's for Hair Goods, a fine lot having just been received, in the latest styles and novelties.—Also velvet hats, trimmed, for one dollar.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A CARD.—We take this method of saying that there is no truth in the reports that have been circulated, "that we intend quitting the coal business as soon as our present supply is sold out." On the contrary, we have on hands now and intend to keep on hand a well selected stock of the best Anthracite coal in the market.

47-tf ALEXANDER & CO.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE.

Where can patients look for relief? The experience of every Dyspeptic tends to prove that the proper method of treatment of that wide spread disease, Dyspepsia, is not to be found in any of the regular schools of medicine. You cannot find any three physicians who will agree upon this point; each has some pet theory of his own; and each patient is but in truth a subject for experiment. The only effectual remedy for this terrible scourge is

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS.

It alone is certain and uniform it its effects. It has cured thousands and will cure you. Try It!!

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

THOUSAND SUFFER FROM IT.—A Weak, Nervous, Exhausted Feeling, no Energy, Animation of Vigor, Low Spirits, Confused Head, Weak Memory, Nocturnal or Involuntary Seminal Emissions, With Loss of Power and Threatened Impotence. The consequent of excesses, overwork or indiscretions. This is NERVOUS DEBILITY, and it finds a sovereign remedy in HUMPHREYS' HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFIC No. TWENTY-EIGHT. Thousands have been cured by these simple sugar pills. They tone up the system, arrest the discharges, dispel the gloom and mental depression, and rejuvenate the system. Price $5 for a package or five boxes and a vial of power, which is important in al old long-standing cases, or $1 per single box Sold by all first-class druggists, and sent to any address on receipt of the price. Address HUMPHREYS' SPECIFIC HOMEOPATHIC MEDICINE CO., 562 Broadway, New York.
